MAJ. GEN. CLARENCE R. EDWARDS VISITS BETHEL INN

(Ed.—We are fortunate in being able to give to our readers a report of Maj. Gen. Edwards' visit at Bethel Inn from the able pen of Sam E. Connor of the Lewiston Journal as written by him for the Lewiston Journal, and through whose courtesy this is reprinted.)

"Come here my lad, I want to shake your hand."

Don't think this was said in a word of command. It was an invitation, and the kindly smile on the face of General Edwards, as he issued the invite caused Pvt. Leslie Coburn to salute smartly and cross the office of the Bethel Inn Monday afternoon and clasp the hand of his former commanding officer.

Leslie was a YD man and this day he was prouder of it than ever before, if such a thing was possible. He was in the famous D Company which while usually referred to as the Norway company, may well be said to have been one of the Oxford county outfits—the western Oxford contingent if you prefer. It had men from all sections of this side of the county. Leslie served more than nine months in France and played a mighty important part in the war game over there. He was one of the runners of the company. Now, perhaps you don't know what a runner is. If not, ask some chap who was "over there"; he'll tell you and then you'll understand.

The runner is the chap who takes the messages back and forth from the "C. O." and the company commander. He goes through the barrage, through the man's land, anywhere it is necessary to take a message. I asked Col. Hume, last night, where a runner like Coburn wouldn't go.

For a couple of minutes the Colonel chewed his cigar, squinted through his glasses and then he said: "I don't know; they'd go through hell if it was necessary to deliver the message; anyway that's what the runners of the 103d, would do."

Which brings us back to where we started. Coburn had just come into the hotel, where he is employed. The General spotted him instantly and called him over. He had caught the Yankee Division insignia on the lad's arm and if there is any one thing which delights him it is to shake the hand of one of the soldiers who served with him in France. He chatted with the boy for a minute and then Coburn spoke to Col. Hume, with whom he talked regarding incidents of their life over seas.

This was but one of several incidents which showed how interested General Edwards is in the men of the 26th Division and of all soldiers. All through the trip wherever he saw one of the boys he spoke and shook hands with them. Another feature of the trip to date is the way in which General Edwards shows his love of the men and his desire to do that which shall be for their betterment.

Veteran Wished He Could Be in YD The Edwards party reached here shortly after 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. After a brief rest, despite the rain which was falling most of them took a stroll around the town. General Edwards, Gen. Presson and Col. Farnham were walking together when they met two veterans of the Civil War; G. A. Men, you know. One was minus an arm; both were well along in years, as they came up to the General they stopped and the man of the one arm exclaimed:

"I've come a long ways and I'm not going to miss speaking to you Gen. Edwards; I never expected to have the pleasure."

"I should have regretted had you not done so," replied the General, "it is my pleasure to meet you; I always enjoy meeting you men."

"You know, General," was the answer, "I was dazed sorry I couldn't serve you in France."

They saluted and passed on.

"It's a pity it is any wonder we won the war," commented the General as he watched them move away.

Delighted With Bethel A pouring rain is the most fitting description of weather conditions when the party arrived at Bethel, Monday afternoon. It was anything but cheerful out of doors. The rain which began at So. Paris and hastened the departure of the party from that place had followed along to here. It had taken away much of the pleasure of the usually beautiful ride up through Bryant's Pond, Locke's Mills and the intermediate countryside. It did not look as though there was going to be a very pleasant evening ahead. This just showed how deceiving appearances can be.

Don't think there was grumbling among the members of the party. There

TYLER-RABIDEAU

Mr. Howard E. Tyler of Bethel and Miss Ermina Rabideau of Milan, N. H., were married at the home of the bride's parents in Milan on Thursday afternoon, June 5.

The simple but impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Phelps, using the double ring service, upon the laws with the decorations of Nature as a background. The bride and groom were attended by Mrs. Glenna Thibault and Mr. Ernest Taylor, and only members of the immediate families were present.

After the luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Tyler left for a short honeymoon and later will make their home on Spring street, Bethel.

Both bride and groom are well known to Bethel people and all extend to them the best of wishes.

MAJ. E. F. BRADBURY NOW A BENEDICT

Prominent Norway Surgeon Weds Oxford Woman

A marriage that came as a surprise to all except a few close relatives was that of Major E. F. Bradbury and Mrs. Florence Hall, which took place at Augusta last Tuesday evening, June 10, at 7 o'clock.
Major Bradbury is one of the best known surgeons in Maine. He was connected with the National Guard and under Governor Curtis' administration was made chief surgeon of the military staff. At Chickamauga in the Spanish-American War, Major Bradbury was brigade surgeon and successfully established hospitals near Savannah. After the European war broke out, he left a large and successful practice in Norway, to go to Germany where he had charge of a Red Cross unit for four months, returning in January, 1915. The following year he was made chief surgeon of the National Home at Togus, and in September, 1917, he was chosen by the War Department as division surgeon, 15th Division and ordered to Laredo, Texas. The climate, however, did not agree with him and he received his discharge but was later reinstated with headquarters at Augusta and among his duties was that of examining surgeon at the exemption board. He returned to Norway about three months ago.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus F. Hayes of Oxford and has often visited Norway where she has many friends. Major and Mrs. Bradbury are to reside in Norway.

They were cheerful and smiling. It was just as they were, as had it been different they would have been obliged to shift gears a moment later.
Mrs. Edwards was the first to enter the Inn, Mrs. Guy P. Gannett was close behind her and then came the General. "Well, well," exclaimed Mrs. Edwards as he got inside, saw the spacious, cozy office and the inviting fire which glowed in the great fireplace.

"Isn't it glorious," cried Mrs. Ed-

GRANGE NEWS

FRANKLIN GRANGE

Franklin Grange held an evening meeting, Saturday evening, June 7. Over one hundred members were present. The third and fourth degrees were given to a large class. Refreshments of lemonade and cake were served. After this games and a social time were enjoyed.

At the next meeting, Saturday afternoon, June 21, Children's Day will be celebrated. We hope all the members will come and bring the little folks.

BETHEL GRANGE

It was thought best to appoint the Grange meeting Monday evening as Thursday evening was the graduation reception. The worthy Master called to order at 8:15. Opened in form. Balloted on one candidate. Voted to hold the Pomona meeting the last Tuesday in October. The following committee was appointed dinner committee: Mrs. Todrey, Mrs. Copeland and Mrs. Mason; reception committee, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Bartlett, Mrs. Cole, A. P. Copeland and Mrs. Farwell. After the business the Lecturer presented the following program:

Song, Mrs. Cole.
Roll Call, responded to by every member.

Recitation, Elizabeth Mason.

Question: Who is the most independent, the laboring man or the farmer?

Discussed by all.

Motion Song, Our Flag.

By the young folks.

Horatio Mason.

Question: How may it be possible for young men to own farms? Led by A. F. Copeland, followed by others.

Closed in form.

PARIS GRANGE

Paris Grange met June 7 at 2 p. m. After the usual routine a recess was taken to prepare for supper which was served to over 200. After supper at 8 p. m. the degree team from Thomas Corner Grange consisting of about 50 members worked the third and fourth degrees on 31 candidates. The work of the drill squad was very fine as well as the tableaux. The work was the best ever seen in this part of the State. A vote of thanks was given to them for their fine entertainment. It was an event long to be remembered by Paris Grange as well as to a lot of visiting patrons. The next meeting of Paris Grange will be held June 21 at 8 p. m.

PATRIOTIC ASSOCIATION MEETING

A good number attended the annual meeting of the Oxford County Patriotic Association, which was held at Grand Army Hall, South Paris, Wednesday, June 11, and in spite of the heat the day was enjoyable. A business meeting was held in the forenoon, a picnic dinner, and a program of music and speaking in the afternoon. Resolutions were presented and accepted on the death of John F. Plummer, the only member of Wm. K. Kimball Post who has died during the past year.

At the afternoon session, with President Freeman J. Wyman presiding, there was singing of patriotic songs by the audience, and a violin solo by Mr. Farnham of Norway. Among the speakers were J. M. Gammon of Mechanic Falls, J. A. Noyes of South Paris, W. S. Starbird of South Paris, John Monroe of Mechanic Falls, G. A. Whitman of South Paris, Rev. J. H. Little of Bethel, Moses King of Lewiston, and others.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Pres. Rev. J. H. Little, Bethel.

1st Vice Pres.—Gilman Whitman, So. Paris.

2nd Vice Pres.—Mrs. Roscoe Monk, Norway.

Sec.—Mrs. Florence Hicks, So. Paris.

Asst. Sec.—Mrs. L. A. Bonds, So. Paris.

Treas.—Mrs. Jennie Richardson, Norway.

Program Committee.—H. H. Maxim, South Paris; Ira C. Jordan, Bethel; Alice Willis, Bethel; Mrs. Samuel Wymann, South Paris; Mrs. Mary Bartlett, Locke's Mills; Mrs. George Fogg, Norway; John Monroe, Mechanic Falls; Mrs. Sarah Christie, South Paris.

What do you say to a walk to Paradise? suggested General Presson.

"I think this is just about paradise," was the quick reply.

"Should say it was," said the General. A bit later he was examining one of the maps of Bethel and vicinity which they have for distribution at the hotel and noticed a hill marked "Paradise."

"Paradise hill," said he.

"What do you say to a walk to Paradise?" suggested General Presson.

"I think this is just about paradise," was the quick reply.

OXFORD COUNTY WELCOMES HOME SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Monday was a big day for Norway and South Paris, when the soldiers and sailors of Oxford County were given a Welcome Home, and a royal welcome was. Notwithstanding overseas skies, the two towns donned gala attire and bunting and flags were used in decorating everywhere. Store windows were elaborately festooned. Auto loads of people commenced to gather at an early hour.

On the arrival of the train at South Paris, the parade formed, with Major Bradbury of Norway in command, followed by the Medical Corps, the Veterans of '61, the Brigade Band of Lewiston, soldiers and sailors in uniform, in charge of Captain Guy I. Swift, of Co. D, with Sergeant Alfred J. Dyer carrying the Stars and Stripes. The official party, including General and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, Major Hyatt, Colonel Frank Hume, Adjutant General Presson, Senator and Mrs. Gannett of Augusta. The officers and committees of the day followed in automobiles and one round of the track was made.

After breaking ranks, the old veterans were seated on the pavilion with the official party. The pavilion was gaily decorated with the national colors and flags of the Allied nations. The band stand, near by, was decorated with bunting. After a selection by the band, Hon. Bertrand G. McIntire of Norway gave the address of welcome.

An original poem written by Mrs. Alice D. Maxim of South Paris was read by Clerk of Courts, Donald B. Partridge. Mr. McIntire introduced Col. Hume of the Yankee Division, who was enthusiastically applauded. He paid a high compliment to Norway, for her part in the war, with Company D under the care of such boys as Swift, Bennett, Foster and others, proving themselves worthy to be sons of Maine.

He gave an interesting talk of the forming of the 103d, their start in October 1917, through England and France, and recounted some of their experiences, telling of the battles in which Company D participated; of the promotion of Lieutenant Guy Swift to captain; his transfer to the 23d Infantry, and closed by urging the forming of the Loyol American Legion for general uplift. The band played a patriotic selection and Mr. McIntire then introduced General Edwards.

He was given a great ovation. During his talk he called for Sergeant Albert C. Brackett, Sergeant William S. Bennett, Sergeant Carroll, Sergeant Frances O'Brien, Scott J. Palmer, John W. Wilson, Arthur K. Shaw, Capt. John Swift, Corp. Wesley Bean and Corp. Cox to come to the platform and those who responded were given a big hand. General Edwards after reading the record of the boys of Co. D from the several towns, paid a high tribute to the boys of the 26th Division, many of whom did not return. "All Stout Hearted Lads," he then called for Sergt. Brackett, who was too modest to respond with a speech. General Edwards was presented with a beautiful bouquet. After his speech, General Edwards held an informal reception.

A complimentary dinner was served in the exhibition hall, by the granges of the two towns to all service men in uniform, the Grand Army, Spanish War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, committees of the two towns, members of the band and guests numbering nearly 500.

The hall was decorated with streamers and fans of bunting, and bouquets of flowers on all the tables.

A Red Cross service station served ice cream, lemonade and cigars free to all men in uniform. Members of the Red Cross were in charge, under the leadership of Mrs. Luther Newcomb. Eating booths were in full swing where the public could procure dinner. Fully 12,000 people were on the grounds, and 800 automobiles. During the dinner hour, a sharp shower, scattered the crowd to shelter, many returning home before the afternoon sports. Happily the rain lasted but a short time and the afternoon program was started as follows:

Polio race, 4 contestants—L. J. Berryman, winner; A. Smith, second;

A. Morris, third; S. Sturtevant, fourth.

Sack race, 4 contestants—Ned Trueman, first; W. J. McKay, second; R. Glick, third; W. Downing, fourth.

PIANO RECITAL BY MRS. BRICKETT'S PUPILS

Friday evening, June 6, at Grange Hall the pupils of Nellie L. Brickett gave their annual recital. The hall was prettily decorated, and the flag and flowers made an attractive surrounding for the young pupils. The program was so finely rendered that it gave evidence of the faithful work of both teacher and pupils, and the advancement of the older pupils and the progress of the younger ones, to whom this was their first recital was gratifying to parents and friends, and afforded a most pleasant evening's entertainment to the guests. The congratulations to both teacher and pupils were well deserved.

FLAG DAY

The first American flag, formally adopted by congress on June 14, 1777, is said to have been made out of a soldier's white shirt, an old blue army overcoat and a red flannel petticoat. It was first hoisted by the Revolutionary army during Burgoyne's campaign and was first flown to the ocean breeze by Paul Jones.

We have not advanced so far from those humble but glorious beginnings as to have lost the savor. The continuation that went into the making of the first flag answered all requirements. History has neglected the owner of the white shirt and the old overcoat. It has likewise courteously refrained from mentioning the original possessor of the petticoat. It is enough that all were Americans.

But the vicissitudes of history have not dimmed the luster of those first Stars and Stripes. Rather have they grown more glorious in the eyes of the people over whom they float.

The observances of 1919, while commemorating the glories of the past, must necessarily take account of the new epoch upon which we have entered. But there is no change in the significance of the national emblem. As before, it stands for justice, freedom and humanity. There will be no new teachings, but a fresh consecration of the old.

WHAT FLAG MEANS TO ALL
Days of Sacrifice and Devotion Have Made It Cause of Pride to Every American

The flag means more to Americans in the year 1919 than it has ever meant in our lives. And why? Not, surely, because it is more familiar. Nor yet because it floats over hosts of soldiers and mighty fleets. There were soldiers and fleets before. Not, therefore, because of its new part in the pomp of war.

It means more to us because we have put more into it. Because, after years of peace and plenty in which we thought of our flag chiefly as something to protect and guard us, we have in time of war and grief and hardship learned to know our flag as something for us to protect and guard and serve.

A flag, in short, is as great as its people—and no greater. When they are great and generous and courageous, it is great and beautiful and holy. When they falter and haggle, their flag is less than nothing to them, as to the world at large.

Ours to love and cherish and die for in the greatest of causes! Therefore a source of pride and of deep emotion to every American. That is the lesson we are learning in these days of sacrifice and devotion, when a flying bit of color becomes the most glorious and precious and sacred thing in the whole wide world.—New York Tribune.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can to my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARY BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E. Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions when a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years' experience at your service.

disapproval for demonstrations of disloyalty or erroneous concepts of civic obligation are gathered into one mighty stream. The symbolism of the flag, of which the disloyal prove the correctness by their acts of desertion, was never more clear and luminous than on this fourteenth day of June in this tremendous year of history, 1919.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE FLAG
Glorious Record From January 18, 1776, to Its Proud Position in the World, 1919

The Stars and Stripes was raised on the heights near Boston on January 18, 1776, and the British troops believed it to be evidence of submission to the king. The Betsy Ross flag, the official flag, came later.

After the declaration of independence, July 4, 1776, the first salute to it was given by the Dutch island of St. Eustatius in the West Indies by Johannes de Graff, commander of the port.

When Kentucky and Vermont came into the Union in 1794 two additional stars were placed on the field, but they were discarded after much debate in congress and the original thirteen were restored in 1818.

The first flag that floated over a foreign and captured fort was at Nassau, January 23, 1778. The first carried to London was on a vessel February 3, 1783. It floated in China in 1784. It was carried around the world from 1787 to 1790. The first blood shed under it was in Ireland in 1790 during a mob riot over a bridge built by American engineers. The first salute to it was given by an English vessel in May, 1791.

One of Napoleon's general's remarks to the illustrious man that sentiment had no place in the thought of a country. Napoleon replied: "Sentiment concerns what most enriches life."

CHICKS AND HOT WEATHER

In extremely hot weather special care is necessary to prevent chicks from being overheated by exposure to the sun, confinement where ventilation is bad, or overcrowding. The brooder should be under shelter, with good circulation of air around it, and the number of chicks should not be greater than it will accommodate comfortably under hot weather conditions.

Skin milk, either sweet or sour, and buttermilk are especially valuable foods in hot weather, making the diet lighter without reducing its nutritive value. The milk should be fed in a drinking fountain or in a dish covered with wire netting so that the chicks can not get into it and become soiled with milk. The use of milk does not do away with the use of water, which should be given as usual.

Unless the premises where chicks are kept and all appliances used are known to be absolutely free from lice and mites, and it is certain that chicks have never been exposed to them, it is a wise precaution to paint or spray the brooder with a mixture of 4 parts crude petroleum and 1 part kerosene, allowing it to dry thoroughly before using. About once a week puff of insect powder on the chicks when in the brooder will do away any lice that may be on them.

CANTON

Albert Foster, an aged resident of Canton, is ill having been overcome with the intense heat the past week.

Miss Mildred Foster of Dixfield has been a guest at the home of Geo. H. Johnson and family.

Mrs. Mary P. Richardson has been entertaining her cousin, Mrs. Flora N. Stevens.

Miss Ruth Johnson has returned home from business college at Lewiston for the summer.

During a thunder shower last week the farm buildings of S. T. Hayden on Canton Mountain were burned, lightning striking the barn. The house had been partially taken down, but the barn was in good repair. In the barn were eight or nine tons of best hay, a mowing machine, hay fork and spring tooth harrow. The loss was about $500 with no insurance. The farm was formerly the old Capen farm and the buildings were unoccupied.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Adams were called to North Jay, Saturday, by the serious illness of his sister, Miss Loretta Adams.

Quartermaster Arthur L. Tirrell of Canton has recently had an honor conferred upon him which is pleasing to his many friends. He has been stationed at Base Hospital, No. 53, Langres, France, for many months and has been judged worthy by W. Lee Hart, commanding officer of this hospital to wear the Arms of the city of Langres. This honor was authorized by the Mayor of Langres, as a remembrance of the city's deep gratitude. Mr. Tirrell is the eldest son of Henry T. Tirrell of Bath and the late Susan Hayford Tirrell. He writes that he expects to start for home soon.

An automobile accident occurred just below the Canton Creamery on the Livestock road late Saturday afternoon, when three men, in some unknown manner, landed in the ditch in a large Overland auto. One of the men was slightly injured and the auto was badly damaged. A crew of men pulled it into the road Sunday morning and it was taken to a garage for repairs.

Dwight Parsons is home from Boston on a vacation.

Mrs. Lucretia Maxin was called to Fayette last week by the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Delina Barter, who is now convalescing.

Joshua McKay has sold his farm in Hartford to Enos Sawyer of Medford. Elsie Daigle has been visiting his home in town and will soon go to Boston, where he has employment.

Miss Montez York has purchased a piano of S. G. Wheelwright of East Dixfield.

Mrs. Mary D. French and daughter, Mrs. Jennie F. Hollis, are spending a few weeks at Old Orchard, making the trip by auto.

Swaney Wadlin is at home from Boston University.

The thermometer registered 102 degrees in the shade Wednesday at Canton postoffice.

Mrs. Julia Adams and son have returned home from a visit in Farmington, East Wilton and Cheshireville.

Mrs. Lois Wagner Davis and daughter of Jackson, N. H., are guests of Mrs. Martha Blackwell of Canton Point.

Emery Parsons remains in very poor health and does not gain as fast as his friends could wish.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ingersoll and little son, Ronald, of Bolster's Mills have been guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ingersoll, and family and other relatives in town this week.

The local tannery has shut down for a time.

At the next regular meeting of John A. Dodge Relief Corps candidates will be initiated and the patriotic instructor will arrange a program for flag day.

Mrs. Ella Nickerson, who has been caring for her sister in law, Mrs. O. S. Waite, of North Jay has returned home.

Miss Florence Estes and Miss Anna Conley have been visiting at their homes in Lewiston.

Mrs. Margery Weld has been spending a week or two with her sisters, Mrs. Elva Haines and Miss Phileas McColister, of Mexico.

Mrs. T. W. Gillespie has returned from Philadelphia where she was called by the death of her friend, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, who has spent much time at the Gillespie home in the past and made many friends. Mrs. Smith was an enthusiastic worker in the Red Cross, and it is thought her hard work may have been the cause of her sudden death. She was a member of the Canton Workers and of the Needle Guild.

She was given the honor of a military funeral and of having the Stars and Stripes envelope her casket. She was buried in her Red Cross uniform, the stripes showing that she had devoted the most hours to the cause of any worker. The bearers were from the Philadelphia Home Guard and Canton Workers, and the casket was surrounded with beautiful flowers. Mrs. Gillespie's trip was doubly sad, being also called to Atlantic City, N. J., where her sister submitted to a surgical operation and passed suddenly away.

The Mexico High school also played the Cantons at the Canton grounds, the visiting nine winning by a score of 13 to 10.

POULTRY PROFITABLE SIDE LINE

A net return of nearly $300 in two and one-half months from a small flock on the farm is the record made by a Glen-dale, Ark., poultry raiser, who is carrying on his operations under the direction of a poultry extension expert of the United States Department of Agriculture. In connection with his general farm work he kept a flock of 210 hens, which produced an average of 10 dozen eggs during the four winter months. During February the eggs brought an average of 55 cents a dozen, or approximately $160, while the feed bill, including the feed for the young chicks, amounted to $50. The following month the flock showed a profit of a little over $100. During the first half of April the gross receipts were $97.50. In April the extension specialist conducted a culling demonstration on this farm and weeded 56 hens from the flock. The culled hens were kept in a separate pen for a week following the demonstration, and made practically no returns in egg yields. This indicates, the specialist says, that the remaining 154 hens probably made the record with which the entire 210 had been credited.

She was a dreamy young lady interested only in the "higher things of life," and she rarely bothered with ordinary mortals or things. Consequently she did not look at her capture when she handed it to the conductor. He handed it back, saying: "Thank ye kindly, Miss, but I'd rather have the nickel."

Then she looked at it. It was a candy lozenge and bore in red letters the words: "I'll never cease to love thee."

OH! MY BACK!

The Expression of Many a Kidney Sufferer in Bethel

A stubborn backache is cause to suspect kidney trouble. When the kidneys are inflamed and swollen, stooping brings a sharp twinge in the small of the back, that almost takes the breath away. Doan's Kidney Pills revive sluggish kidneys—relieve aching backs. Here's Bethel proof:

B. F. Brown, High St., says: "I was troubled by a dull, heavy ache across my back. It annoyed me nearly all the time and I couldn't stoop or do any thing without bringing on the pain. When I got up quickly, I became dizzy and little spots floated before my eyes. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended and I got some at Besserman's Drug Store. I soon had relief and my back became strong. I used about five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and today I am free from all symptoms of kidney complaint."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Brown had. Foster-McIlburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bennett are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son. Mr. Bennett was before her marriage Miss Mildred Henry.

The pupils of the manual training department of the Stephens High school have made a fine cedar chest for Mr. John Stephens, and presented it to him. The High school of Rumford was named the Stephens High school in honor of Mr. John Stephens.

Claude Thomas has accepted a position with the American Express Company of this town.

Mr. David Munkel's brother of Mrs. George Phillips, has come from his former home in New Brunswick to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and family.

The prizes awarded in the manual training exhibit of the Rumford public schools were awarded as follows: Stanley White, 1st; Edwin Woods, 2nd; Maurice Young, 3rd; Arthur Arsenault, 4th; Stanley Galvanski, 5th; Ina Wolf, 6th; Clinton Stewart, 7th; Frank Ross, 8th; Gerald Thurston, 9th; Fred Osimo, 10th; Frank Roy, 11th; Martha Colby, 12th; Walter Meahan, 13th; Warren Frank, 14th; Robert Poulin, 15th.

A fine club house will be built at Thornton Park by a group of ten prominent Rumford men including James W. Harris, manager of the Oxford Paper mill; Major Theodore Hawley, superintendent of the Continental Paper Bag mill; Alfry S. Coke, manager of the Maine Coated Paper mill, and Stephen B. Pennell of the firm of Hicks and Pennell. The club will stock the pond at that place, and in other ways will make it a most attractive spot.

Major General Clarence R. Edwards, the leader of the famous Yankee Division that made such a fine record in France, spoke in Rumford at Municipal Hall on Tuesday afternoon of this week. The hall was filled to overflowing to hear this distinguished man, and all the places of business were closed from 2:30 to 6 o'clock in order that his welcome might be a grand one. All men present who had been in the service, were dressed in their uniforms.

Word has just reached town of the marriage of Miss Rae Langille, who for several years has been a deaconess at the Methodist church in Rumford, and Mr. John Pharrill. The marriage took place in Rochester, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. Pharrill will reside in South Berwick.

Mrs. Albert Zahary and son Alfred Sweetair of Willard Mills, Quebec, are the guests of Fred Sweetair and family of the Virginia district.

Mrs. Amanda Voter is enjoying a visit with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. James M. MacGregor, of Franklin street.

Differences have been adjusted, the employees of the Continental Paper Bag mill returned on Monday morning of this week to their work. Some of the men have been out of the mill since January last.

Mrs. Kenneth Silver is working for Mrs. Sylvanus Poor.

Ralph Hawley is doing chores for Y. A. Thurston.

Marjorie and Louise Akers from Rumford visited their grandparents, Edward Akers and wife, Saturday and Sunday.

Vernie Ottignon has been at G Pond a few days camping.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Marston and Claude Marston, wife and son are at Peak's Island this week attending the reunion of Mr. Marston's regiment.

There was an exciting game of baseball when Gould's Academy played against the Andover High school, resulting in a score of 8 to 3 in favor of the former team.

Fred Hutchins and Sam Chase have gone to Thayer's camp at the West Arm.

Mrs. Charles Snell and daughter, Eva, will leave town this week for Southern California, where they will visit friends.

Mr. Snell will board with Mrs. Maggie Hall.

The much needed rain came at last and with cooler weather crops are looking fine.

Gerald Marston and John Hopkins of Rumford Point have taken from the Androscoggin river and sold $3,500 worth of suckers. Nets set where the brooks come in respond with large catches.

At one hauling eleven hundred pounds of fish were taken. The suckers are sold in New York as "mountain trout." Prices range from 15 to 30 cents per pound.

Mr. Marston is the son of S. W. Marston of this town.

Y. A. Thurston and wife were in Rumford Wednesday of last week.

Arthur Noble, Henry Roberts and David Olney were among the soldiers who attended the home coming celebration at South Paris, Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. John Suter, who have spent a few days at their summer home, returned to their home in Winchester, Mass., Tuesday.

The long drawn out job of extending the sewer on Congress street past the Municipal Building will be completed this week, after which Mr. Howard will go ahead with his job of phasing the asphalt paving, as far as the curbing is in past the Municipal Building, a fine improvement.

Rumford taxpayers face the heaviest tax rate in the history of the town, the rate being 30 mills for the town, and seven mills for the corporation. The appropriations were considerably more than in previous years, while State and County taxes are much more also.

Miss Ella Ames and Miss Hattie T. Macneil are enjoying an automobile trip to Massachusetts.

Mrs. Dana G. York, who has been for the past six weeks in Boston with her mother who has been receiving treatment for a broken arm, expects to return to her home in Rumford the latter part of this week.

Mrs. Eliza Walte, who has been keeping house for Mrs. Harry Mosher, has now taken a similar position for Mr. Thomas Evans of the Virginia district.

Mr. Richard Melcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Melcher of this town, arrived in Rumford on Tuesday noon from overseas. Mr. Melcher went over in one of the first lumber units, and was first located in Northern Scotland, on the estate of Andrew Carnegie, getting out lumber for war purposes. Mr. Melcher's efficiency was recognized by promotion. He was later transferred to France in charge of one of the lumber units. His many friends are glad to see him back, and congratulate him on his unequalled success.

A heavy electrical shower with considerable rain Thursday afternoon broke the intense heat of the three previous days. Lightning struck O. H. Martin's house on Pioneer street, damaging the chimney and cutting off the water pipes. It also struck the residence of Mrs. Juliette E. Curtis, corner of High and Greenwood streets, and a tree near the residence of E. H. Penley, but no serious damage was done.

Mrs. Hattie Mooney Lyons has sold her house to Henry Heikkinen, who it is reported, will use it for a Finn hotel.

D. B. Holt, D. D., of Lewiston, preached at the M. E. church Thursday evening. It was the first quarterly conference of the M. E. church.

Mrs. Sara E. Curtis has returned from a visit with Mrs. Wallace Mason of Gorham, N. H.

Charles Briggs has purchased R. T. Flavin's house at Trap Corner and moved his family there.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Bates of New Haven, Conn., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Bates. Mr. and Mrs. Bates were residents of West Paris for several years, and have many friends here who will be glad that they are planning to spend the summer here. Mr. Bates built the house on Main street now occupied by George Devine, and sold it to go to Florida, where they resided for nearly five years, coming to New Haven on last year.

The Oxford County United Baptist Association will meet at the Baptist church, Wednesday and Thursday, the 11th and 12th.

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Markley, Mrs. E. R. Davis and Mrs. Rawson Herrick motored to Belster's Mills to attend Panama Grange.

It is reported that Mrs. F. L. Willis and Mrs. Emma W. Mann have sold their residence near the station and will move to South Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Mann expect to close their house and go to their cottage at Bryant's Pond for the summer this week.

Miss Emma Swan spent a few days recently with her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Stuart.

West Paris Universalist Society went over the top in the recent drive. The allotment was $1,500, and the amount was oversubscribed without calling for outside speakers or aid.

Lient. and Mrs. F. E. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ridlon and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Mann started Saturday morning for a two days' auto trip in New Hampshire and Vermont.

Children's Sunday was observed at the Universalist church by an excellent program and christening of children.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swan have gone to housekeeping in Lauri Immonen's house.

The relation of cash crops to feed crops

George E. Simmons, Professor of Agronomy, U. of M., in Farmers' Week Course

The three factors of agricultural production—land, labor and capital goods—must be balanced properly to secure the best results in farming. Should either be neglected or deficient, success will be, may be, changed to failure.

One of the opportunities for labor conservation on the dairy farm is in its use to produce cash crops that may be grown by labor released for part time during the pasture season for the herd. Dairy herds may be located on farms that are adapted to the profitable production of other crops than those grown for the herd.

Potatoes, a crop especially adapted by climate and soil conditions to many parts of Maine, furnish a product of high per acre yield that may be grown in area adapted to the size of the farm and to the amount sufficient to use the spare time of both man and team-power.

Potato culture is particularly adapted to fitting land for big yields of grain and clover, when grown in rotation. While corn grown for ensilage requires good cultural methods, the amount necessary to supplement the grain and hay would not permit a re-

Dodge's cold

Some folks are fortunate enough always to breathe pure air, and never get run down by overwork or exposure. Even these lucky people do not always escape the contagious colds which prevail at certain seasons to such an extent as to be almost epidemic. It is wise to be prepared for trouble of this nature in cold climates, and the one all-important thing is to have at hand a safe, efficient and reliable remedy to ward off the trouble and danger of such an attack. For forty years "D. F." Atwood's Medicine has been a household standby for emergencies of this kind. It warms up the liver and bowels, prevents congestion, and restores the functions to their normal condition. If you have never used it, get a 50 cent bottle from your dealer, or write for a free sample to the "D. F." Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

POEMS WORTH READING

THE OLD FLAG

Off with your hat as the flag goes by,
And let the heart have its say!
Your man enough for a tear in your eye
That you will not wipe away.

You're man enough for a thrill that goes
To your very finger tips,
Aye, the lump just then in your throat
That rose
Spoke more than your parted lips.

Lift up the boy on your shoulder high
And show him the faded shred,
Those stripes would be red as the sunset sky
If death could have dyed them red.

The man that bore it with death has lain
These twenty years and more.
He died that the work should not be in vain
Of the man who bore it before.

The man that bears it in heart and old,
And ragged his beard and gray,
But look at his eye fire young and bold
At the time that he hears them play.

The old time thunders through all the air
And strikes right into the heart.
If it ever calls for you, boy, be there—
Be there and ready to start.

Off with your hat as the flag goes by!
Uncover the youngster's head!
Teach him to hold it holy and high,
For the sake of the sacred dead.

—H. C. Bunker.

COMING HOME FROM FRANCE
The following poem was written by Beth H. Crocker. Mr. Crocker is blind.
His son is a Y. P. boy, twice wounded and now in the army hospital at Parker Hill. This son, Mr. Crocker says inspired the poem.

Rock gently, old Atlantic, on thy breast
Our wounded boys—to sleep and rest.
Moonlight, sunshine, brightened all their way,
A whole world waits to welcome them today.

CHORUS

Let us live to make them happy,
As they fought to make us free,
Our gallant boys in khaki
Who went across the sea
From France's and from Belgium's fate
They saved our own United States.
A nation's gratitude they won
By hurrying back the brutal Hun.

Now let Old Glory greet their eyes,
The flag for which they went to die;
And let us all be glad and cheer,
For they've come back from Chateau Tillery.

Round all the world their brave deeds shine
Take sunset glow in winter time.
Farrer shall their praises ring While stars shall shine and birds shall sing.

THE NATION'S PRIDE
On history's crimson pages, high upon the roll of fame,
The story of Old Glory burns in deathless words of flame,
'Twas cradled in war's blinding smoke.

BUILDING UP
OUR WOMANHOOD

Given Up to Die by Her Friends, a Young Lady Rescued Her Health and Increased Weight—Nine Pounds.
A Powerful Nation Needs Strong Healthy Women.

A nation is no stronger than its women. Hence, it is the duty of every woman whether young or old, to take care of her body, to preserve her health. If you are weak and suffering, don't wait until tomorrow but seek relief at once—today. Tomorrow your illness may take a chronic turn.

There is a remedy for almost every ill. Thousands have found Femina to be that remedy as did Miss Clara Lott of 11 R. Good St., Grand Rapids, Michigan. She writes a friend: "I don't need Femina any more. I am all well after taking the bottles. I wanted ninety pounds before I started and was down and weakly. I had such a cough and spitting all the time that I never expected to recover.
My friends gave me up. I could eat nothing. Now I can eat and weigh 110 pounds. I most thankfully recommend Femina to my friends."
Miss Lott's letter is an inspiration, a message of hope to suffering women. It tells you that you too may be strong and well and victorious.

Femina may be had in either liquid or tablet form. Ask your doctor. If you value health, do not accept a substitute. Dr. Hartman's World Famous Femina Tablets is what you want. The Femina Chamberlain, Inc., Grand Rapids, Mich., also sends Dr. Hartman's Health Book free to you. Write for it.
Your doctor will give you a Femina prescription.

PEOPLE CONSTIPATED
AND DON'T KNOW IT!

It seems odd, but it is true, that you may be constipated and not know it.
You can see why it is. Take a glass and pour in water until full. If you keep on pouring in water after the glass is full, it will run over, but the glass stays full.

Just so with your bowels; they get full of waste matter, and then they pass off or expel from the body only about the same amount that goes into it in the form of food.

So you may have a movement of the bowels every day and yet there will remain waste matter that ought to be removed.

Give your bowels a gentle but thorough cleaning out and you'll feel great.
A fine prescription for this is put up and sold under the name of Dr. Tru's Elixir. Doctors and druggists use it in their own families. Costs but little and brings health to men, women and children. Sweet and pleasant tasting.
Works gently. Children like it. Remember the name, Dr. Tru's Elixir.

Adv.

amid the roar of guns,
Its lullabies were battle-cries—the shouts of freedom's sons;
It is the old Red, White and Blue, proud emblem of the free,
It is the flag that floats about our land
of liberty;
Then greet it when you meet it, boys,
the flag that waves on high,
And hail it all along the line when Freedom's flag goes by!

Uncover when the flag goes by, boys,
'Tis Freedom's starry banner that you greet,
Flag famed in song and story,
Long may it wave, Old Glory,
The flag that has never known defeat!

—Charles L. Benjamin.

THE LOYAL MOTHER
She hung up a flag for her baby to see,
Her dwelling was poor as a dwelling could be
"There's no little," she said, "I am able to do
For my child; but a love for the red, white and blue Instilled in him early means endlessly more
That giving him gold from a plentiful store."

She hung up a flag for her baby to see,
The wandering eyes were as round as could be
While the petal-like hands and the pink little feet
Waved wonderful gestures that banner to greet.
A beam of the sun made the red jazz flag bright—
The little lad laughed in his boundless delight.

She hung up a flag for her baby to see;
She crowned him to sleep with "The Land of the Free"—
His last waking sight his blue field set with stars
And the alternate crimson and snow of his bars.
"I've little to give him," she sighed,
"but God knows He'll be true to the colors, wherever he goes."

She hung up a flag for her baby to see—
He's "over there" setting humanity free!
His love for the banner of red, white and blue
Has grown with each beat of his heart
as he grew.
Thank God for the mother: none wiser than she—
We hang up a flag for the baby to see.
—Strickland Gillilan.

WHAT THEY WISHED
A young couple were rejoicing some blissful moments alone after the busiday children dinner. They had broken the wishbone at the table.
"Tell me what you wished!" she asked, shyly.
"Tell me what you wished," he returned.
"Well, I wish if you will."
"I hate to do it—it might not come true."
"But maybe it would. Now, you promised, you know."
"Well I—er—I wished you'd let me love you. Now what did you wish?"
"Oh I haven't told."
"But you promised."
"Well—I wished you'd get your wish."

SOUTH PARIS

The body of Mrs. Benjamin K. Morse
(Mary Weeks) of Beckett street, Port-

A GUERNSEY BULL CALF
SOLD FOR $25,000

What is Florkam Leader Worth as the Head of a Herd?

Recently the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station published bulletin 274 which enables the dairymen to distinguish between the bulls of the Guernsey breed which improved the breed and those which did not. This bulletin takes this axiom as its fundamental postulate—the most important thing which a breeder of dairy cattle desires to know is whether a bull is transmitting production qualities to his offspring. If by chance the bull is on the average lowering the producing qualities of his daughters, or that they are poorer in the butter-fat of their milk than their dams, it would appear that he is exercising a harmful effect on the breed. On the other hand if this bull is producing an increase in the amount of milk, in its richness, or both, in his daughters over that of their dams he may be said to be influencing a beneficial effect on the breed. These facts are table for the Guernsey bulls who have advanced registry offspring. Since it often comes up, as in the case of this $25,000 calf, that the prospective buyer wants to determine a bull's potency for high milk and butter-fat transmission it may be well to point out bulletin 274 may be used for this purpose using this two months old bull calf, Florkam Leader, for illustration.

Two conclusions previously derived from milk studies will also be considered as measurably true, high milk production is dominant to low and high butter-fat per cent is recessive to low butter-fat per cent. Tracing the sire side of Florkam Leader's pedigree for milk production, etc., we have King of the May bred to cows of a rather high average production and butter-fat percentage raising the milk production of slightly better chance to carry these

his daughters over that of their dams 1847 pounds, the butter-fat percentage should be high producers and part medium and making a net gain of about 83 pounds of butter-fat. This animal bred to the whole milk producing cow, but on the whole only medium butterfat for high percentage so that if he fat test cow, Dolly Dimple, produced the bull Dolly Dimple's May King of spring would be expected to be high Langwater. This bull raised his daughter's production 401 pounds, raised their fat per cent .761 and made a net gain of butter-fat of 103 pounds. This bull clearly had the inherited stuff for medium to high milk production and a high butter-fat per cent. Bred to the cow, Imp. Helen Daisy 3d a cow of rather high milk (1945) and a rather high butter-fat percentage produced the bull No Plus Ultra. This bull bred to cows of medium milk production and only mediocre butter-fat percentage raised the milk production of his offspring 2145 pounds, butter-fat percentage .552 per cent and the net butterfat 121 pounds. This bull, the sire of Florkam Leader, had the heredity material for high butter-fat per cent and high and medium heredity stuff for milk. Florkam Leader, from his sire would, therefore, be expected to get bred to high test cows, high test offspring. He may have either a high producing factor or a medium producing one for milk.

On the Dam's side, it is clearly shown above that the dam of Florkam Leader would receive high milk production and rather high test from her sire Dolly Dimple's May King of Langwater.
From her dam, Early Rose of Barisan, she received only mediocre milk production and a rather high test for the butter-fat percentage.

With the law of dominance in mind Florkam Leader has a good chance to carry in their complete purity high milk producing stuff that will make all his daughters high milk producing, a chance raising the milk production of slightly better chance to carry these

Under some circumstances it is better that the worms be exterminated, though they are not objectionable on house lawns. When they become numerous on putting greens of golf links their little earthen pellets are a source of annoyance. In such cases it is recommended by the Department of Entomology that the soil be drenched with kerosene emulsion. This treatment gives good results against the common white grub, which is also an enemy to lawns. Saturating the soil with a solution of corrosive sublimate is also recommended, but it should be remembered that this preparation is deadly poison, and the greatest care should be used in its preparation and use. Three ounces of this substance should be dissolved in two quarts of water in some glass or glazed vessel which will not absorb poison. The stock mixture of this preparation is sufficient for 35 gallons of water, or practically the capacity of the ordinary oil barrel. This diluted mixture should be applied to the lawn at the rate of from 1 1/2 to 2 gallons each square yard, in case the lawn is young or newly established. A strong application, not to exceed 3 gallons, can be used on older sod.

CO-OPERATE TO FIGHT FIRE

Officials and Citizens Should Work Together to Reduce Waste Largely Caused by Carelessness.

Self-interest should prompt every property owner and tenant to co-operate with the officials of the fire department and of the fire-prevention bureau. Chief Loucks and Jacob E. Hinkens, director of the fire-prevention bureau, have instituted a system to "fight fires before they begin." Semi-monthly inspections are made in every part of the city and property owners are warned to clean up rubbish and to take precautions against fire, where such appear to be needed.

The comparative figures on fire waste in the United States and in European countries have been presented to American newspaper readers many times. The per capita loss in this country is ten to twenty times as great as in some parts of the Old World. Much of that, to be sure, is due to the difference in materials and methods of constructing buildings. But a very large percentage may be charged to our American carelessness. A large proportion of our fire waste is preventable and the Indianapolis officials are working to eliminate that element.

Fire waste is a burden to everybody and all should be active in helping to reduce it. The insurance rates of cities or a nation are based on the losses the companies pay. The smaller the risk the lower the rates will be. The companies receive from policyholders the money that is paid out on fire losses. The way in which to get lower insurance rates is to keep down losses. We are all interested in that and each should do his or her part to make the inspection system of the city thorough. — Indianapolis Star.

HAVE MORE THAN CASH VALUE

General Cultivation of Back-Yard Gardens Means Improvement in the Health of a Community.

It may seem a bit previous to mention it, but don't neglect your garden this year. See if you can't prove peace better than war, even in the back yard. War gardens were worth several hundred million dollars to their makers last year. In cash saved alone. They were worth yet more to the nation, for the food thus raised at home released railroad equipment for other uses. They were worth most of all in health, education, better habits and saner grasp of life.

All these items will be worth just as much this year as last. Food prices are sure to remain high for a considerable time. Railroad equipment will be scarce enough if we release every possible bit of it for service to the industries which must have it. And of course there is no need to enlarge upon the perennial benefits of healthful work, or the superior taste of home-grown vegetables.

Plan your peace garden now.

Destruction of Rats in Cities.
The routing of rats from cities has become both an economic and a sanitary necessity. Facing the possibility of an epidemic of bubonic or pneumonic plague and the enormous expenditures necessitated by such an outbreak, it is the part of wisdom for any city to protect itself from the calamity. It is not for the individual householder or citizen to decide whether he will interest himself in the subject. It is a matter for municipal legislation, and it is the duty of the citizen to support the ordinance and to co-operate with the authorities to the best of his ability in order that the city may be a clean and safe place in which to live.

Fire Prevention.
Fire prevention is the next form of public thrift this country must develop. Our returning soldiers can bring back word that in the last pre-war year, 1918, our per capita fire loss was more than four times that of France and more than six times that of England. —Boston Herald.

DICK'S RETURN

By MARY C. BRIGGS.

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"There, the last lesson is over, but I just know I'll never dare parlez-vous a single word when there's anyone around," sighed pretty Constance, flushed and bright-eyed from her brisk walk home from the French class.

As Constance sat before the fire her thoughts flew forward to the coming dance to be given in honor of Dick C. who had just returned from "over there," and then backward to her last meeting with Dick.

It was the night before he had left for camp and her mother was giving a party in honor of Constance's eighteenth birthday. Early in the evening Dick had drawn her aside and told her that he wished to leave the party early in order to spend as much time as possible with his mother, but asked her permission to come again before he left. There was a certain closeness to his hand-clasp, and in his eyes, as he gazed into hers, there was a peculiar intensity that left her startled and tingling to her finger tips, happy but too breathless to speak.

And then, in the midst of this paradise, Jack H. came to claim her for the next dance. Relieved at any excuse to get away and stop the flood of color rising to her face, she quickly swung into the fox trot with Jack, but not before she saw the look of hurt disappointment in Dick's eyes. This was the look that had haunted Constance for over a year now, for Dick did not come back after the party nor had she ever seen or heard from him since. Why had he not written? Surely he must have seen that she had left him for the dance with Jack only to cover her confusion. But the fact remained—he had not cared enough for her to even write. And Constance wiped a tear of despair from her eyes.

Then she recalled how a certain picture of herself had disappeared from the library table that night, and how they never had been able to find it afterward. At first she had almost dared to hope that Dick had taken it, but common sense told her that a man who went soldiering could not carry a 16-inch, full-length portrait concealed about his person, no matter how much he loved the girl; and besides, Dick apparently did not care and had forgotten her.

The night of the dance came and Constance had never been more dazzling and brilliant. She had determined to be the perfect butterfly if only to show Dick C. how indifferent she was to his lack of attention that year of absence, and her merry laughter and gay French repartee, wonderful recommendations for the little French professor, made her the belle of the ball.

It was not until late in the evening that Dick was able to secure a dance with her, and then, when the dance was half over, utterly oblivious of her graciousness in allowing him a whole dance, he led her from the ballroom out to the cool veranda.

"Do you know why I asked you to come out here where we can talk?" he whispered as soon as they were alone. Once more Constance felt the same emptiness in the region where her lungs ought to be, although she could hear herself fairly wheezing. Once more she was struck dumb, though all sorts of bright French retorts chased through her mind, but refused to cross her lips, she gave one big stifled gasp, however, as Dick continued:

"It's because you're the only girl I've met this evening who hasn't made me want to duck for my little French dictionary. When a chap's been hearing and only half understanding a foreign language for over a year, you've no idea how good it seems to hear his mother tongue spoken by a familiar voice."

"Besides," he continued, "I want to return this to its proper owner, although I must apologize for its condition," and he drew from his pocket a small, beautifully chased gold frame, containing a small picture of herself cut from the one long missing from her library table. Pointing to an ugly bullet scar on the frame, he continued hurriedly:

"Once this little frame saved my life," and he showed her where the bullet still lodged. "And many other times this sweet face and the thought of her at home saved me from much worse. Constance, I had intended to ask for the subject of this little picture before I went away, but my foolish jealousy sealed my lips. Now I'm returning the picture, may I not claim the original?"

At last Constance found her voice, and the words that she spoke were French, not the brilliant repartees she had practiced, but a little three-word sentence she learned in her first lesson. This time Dick felt no inclination to duck for his dictionary; he reached for her hands instead, and as he drew her close the smile that he gave her, well, that is the same in all languages.

NEW HEAD OF "Y" WAR WORK

Edward W. Hearre Resigns as Executive Secretary in Boston; Arthur E. Hoffmire Succeeds Him.

Boston, Mass.—Mr. Arthur E. Hoffmire, who for nearly two years has been Camp General Secretary at Devens, has just been appointed Executive Secretary, Northeastern Dept. of the National War Work Council, Y. M. C. A. He succeeds Mr. Edward W. Hearre who has been in Y. M. C. A. work for 25 years, serving as State Secretary of Iowa, as a lieutenant in the Army during the war in the Philippines, and later as a Y. M. C. A. secretary in the Philippines and China during the Boxer affair. He was General Secretary for Massachusetts and Rhode Island, until he began his work as Executive Secretary for the Northeastern Dept. in the early spring of 1917. Mr. Hoffmire recently resigned to reassume his pre-war position as State Association Secretary for Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Mr. Hoffmire has been an enthusiastic "Y" worker for nearly 15 years, having entered Association service in January, 1906, as Assistant Secretary at the New Bedford Y. M. C. A. where he remained for six years, at the end of which period he was Acting Secretary. In 1911 Mr. Hoffmire accepted General Secretaryship of the North Adams, Mass., Association, where he remained until the spring of 1917. Upon the entrance of the United States into the World War, Mr. Hoffmire, at his own request, was transferred to the Association War Work and donated the Red Triangle as secretary of Hut 25 at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass. On February 1st, 1918, Mr. Hoffmire succeeded Mr. Kenneth Robble of Springfield as Camp Secretary, a position he has held up to the present time.

While at Devens Mr. Hoffmire's sterling worth and frank good nature, as well as keen executive ability won him a host of friends among the doughboys and officers who passed through the camp at the rate of times of 75,000 per month. The "Y" staff at Devens averaged 85 up to the armistice operating sixteen huts, 14 of which are still in service manned by a present staff of 55. 283 "Y" secretaries have passed through the camp service during Mr. Hoffmire's regime, 58 of whom joined the colors. Of the original staff only 3 men are now left, Prof. Henry B. Wright of Yale, George W. Harvey and Edward Schuller.

Mr. Hoffmire will make his headquarters at 167 Tremont street, Boston, the Executive Offices of the Northeastern Department of the Y. M. C. A.

Events of Interest From Washington

By J. E. Jones

THE PHILIPPINE DEMAND.

In 1903 when Admiral Dewey dashed the news of the sinking of the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay the average American had to brush up on his geography to find out the geographical location of the Philippine Islands. At the St. Louis Exposition Americans were given their first "intimate" (1) insight into the traits and characteristics of the Philippine people in the famous, or infamous, Philippine Village. While the St. Louis Exposition had many valuable features it had better never have been held than to have implanted a list of 10,000,000 Filipinos in the minds of the people of this country. Just as the Europeans—and even some of the Yankees who were reared "down East"—used to judge the Western part of our own country through exhibitions of cowboys and war-dressed Indians, or the reading of blood and thunder novels, so quite naturally the savages collected in the Philippine Village confirmed the stories, easy enough to believe of a people whom American arms had subdued, that the Filipinos were a lot of degenerates—and a hopeless lot.

The shadows that moved across the dialplate since those days, have vindicated the West and the Philippines.

HERE WITH THE GOODS

The Philippine Mission, lately arrived upon official Washington. Our Pacific wards and very frankly that they have come to collect the twenty-year-old pledge of the United States to grant them independence. President McKinley assured the people of the Philippines that they would be given their independence when they demonstrated that they were capable of self government. This pledge has been successively repeated by Presidents Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson. The Philippine Mission asserts that it is here "with the goods" to prove that the Philippine people are not only capable of self government, but that they have demonstrated that fact beyond the shadow of a doubt. The Mission is composed of forty of the most progressive and best known Filipinos of the Islands.

Mr. Maximo M. Kalaw, Secretary of the Philippine Mission, has established a permanent publicity bureau in Washington, and he is seeking to secure a better understanding of this country of the conditions that exist among his people. He quotes Governor Harrison, who has been for six years Governor General of the Islands as saying that "by temperament, by experience, by financial ability, and in every way the 10,000,000 Filipinos are entitled to be free from every government except of their own choice. These officials are today governing 1,800 municipalities and 42 provinces, economically, efficiently and for the good of the entire people." Governor Harrison says: "They have a native Congress including many graduates of Yale, Princeton, Harvard and other American Universities. Others are members are graduates of Santa Tomas and other Philippine Universities, and in education and ability they compare favorably with any I know."

At this time it seems strikingly appropriate that the ideals as passionately espoused to secure the happiness and comfort of Europe, in which we have persistently declared our disinterested purpose should likewise be applied in places where we are decidedly interested and concerned. It is not hard to fall in line with the thought that the "rights of small nations," are no where better evidenced in the case of the Philippines than in our relations to the Philippines. Long years have elapsed since the impression gained at St. Louis began to be dispelled, and in the interim the best brains of America have concluded that the question of the ability of the Philippines for self government has been settled in favor of our wards, to whom the pledges of the United States government should be fulfilled.

"RESOLVED" THAT BELIEF BE TURNISHED

President Wilson authorized the creation of a federal commission to investigate conditions in many cities where street railway companies have been unable to obtain approval of local authorities for new lines. Secretaries Redford and Wilson explained to the President that fifty or more street car systems already were in receivers' hands and many others were threatened with a similar situation. "For the industry as a whole is virtually bankrupt." The industry presents a peculiar anomalous condition when compared with all the other public utilities of the country, for the railroads, the telegraph, the telephone and the express service are operating under increased rates. The President and several of the Cabinet officers have made appeals for higher street railway fares in a large number of instances, and the War Labor Board, headed by Mr. Taft, repeatedly championed the interests of the companies. The United States Chamber of Commerce and local chambers throughout the country, the Conference of Governors, and organizations and conventions without number have "resolved" that the street railway industry must be furnished relief. The timidity of local politicians has prevented readjustment of fares in many cases where the facts showed indisputably that bankruptcy, or suspension, stared the industry in the face. Apparently it is easier for local officials to shanghai a trolley concern than to ask the citizens to come across with fares that will be sufficient to pay the legitimate expenses of operation. The franchise conditions are like the famous One Horse Shay, that suddenly collapsed in a heap.

GOLDEN RULE AS A YARDSTICK

There are scores of communities in which street railway fares need adjustment, and even though the whole town may know it—there is still failure to act. As a result Government interference, or aid, will doubtless be welcomed. It appears to be a case where a buffer is needed, and therefore Federal help will be available where appeals are made by the local company, the local government or other representatives of the public. The Government Commission will be made up of experts, and it will be its purpose to make an analysis of conditions in each case it takes up, and to offer definite recommendations for action in readjusting franchise restrictions and in changing fares.

Street railway troubles appear, after all, to be troubles principally of psychology, and with the Federal Government taking away the case, the local political governments will likely conclude that the thing to do is the right thing. And that's all the public, or a public utility, has any reason to expect in these days when the Golden Rule is being used as the human yardstick.

"A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME"

Right smack on top of the announcement that railroads and telephones and telegraphs are to be returned to their owners, comes the news that the Administration, possibly with the President's support, will move towards the "nationalization of coal and gas." "Nationalization" in this instance is likely a new term for "government control," and "operation." "Nationalization" is likely to turn out to be the same kind of a rose as its predecessor, with the same kind of smell attached. The brand on the scheme is in line with the same fallacious methods that were instituted as an "emergency" during the war, and which when order was intended to result in "government ownership," as was proved by the Railway Administration and Director of Mines, before the Government acknowledged that the experiment was a failure.

The country always had plenty of coal until it passed a college professor into the service as an "administrator." Then there was a famine, which many people believe would have been averted had not the industry been overregulated. Oil and gas escaped the blockade because the companies conducted their own transportation affairs, by means of pipe lines and a perfect system of distribution.

STANDARDIZING LIVE-STOCK BREEDS

The farm bureau of Grafton County, N. H., is demonstrating how such an organization can help develop community enterprises. The community chairman in Oxford found that often farmers in his immediate vicinity owned pure bred Berkshire hogs. He felt this was a good foundation for standardizing the breed of the community, and asked the county agent for assistance in strengthening and extending interest in one breed. He arranged a meeting at which the county agent set forth the advantages of communities specializing in one breed. As a result the farmers formed a breeding association and voted to hold a sale of registered stock each year. Many examples show the value of a community breeding a certain line of stock rather than each member of the community proceeding along his own individual line, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

MAJ. GEN. CLARENCE E. EDWARDS VISITS BETHEL INN

Favored A Long Stretch
For the first time during the trip General Edwards saw a morning paper on Monday upon his arrival and read that they were going to try Gaston Guerlin, the betrayer of Miss Edith Cavell, the English nurse shot by the Germans. It took him but a short time to explain his sentiments in the case.

"I'd like to have the handling of that chap's case," said he, "I'd stretch his neck until it reached from here to Berlin."

Talked to the Boy Scouts
Monday night the local troop of Boy Scouts called upon the General in the inn and in the office he made a brief talk to them, speaking in his kindly way and urging them to live the clean lives which would make good men and which, as he assured them, was of such great importance to the future of the nation.

To them he explained his interpretation of the salute; its importance in bringing men to understand discipline and to make better citizens. As he has several times before pointed out it was not a mark of inferiority but a part of the general program of making an army. He told the lads that he was delighted to meet them, and as they filed out of the office he shook each boy's hand, inquired his name and wished him well.

"I used to tell them over in France," said he to the boys, "that we would never win the war until every man, woman and child in America was mobilized and doing his and her part. When I got back to America I found that every one of them was in service. You boys, too, were doing your bits; doing all that you could to help your country win the war and to back us up. You were selling liberty bonds and war savings stamps. I am proud of you and your organization."

This particular band of Scouts in the third Liberty Loan raised two-thirds of the Bethel quota, so that in praising them for their work on this line Gen. Edwards was not exaggerating.

The boys who met the General were: Robert Hanscom, William Vandenberg, Edward Hanson, Luther Morse, Elmer Bennett, Harold Bennett, Glyndon Sawin, Clarence Philbrook, Guy Thurston, Roy Davis and Robert Goddard.

Edwards to Speak at Togus

In compliance with a telephone request from Gov. Hurley of the Togus National Soldiers Home, it was announced this morning that Gen. Edwards and Col. Hume would, Wednesday morning, visit the Home and address the inmates there.

The party left here at 9:30 o'clock

Tuesday morning for Hallowell, where they were scheduled to arrive at 10:30. The members of the party included: Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Clarence E. Edwards, Senator and Mrs. Guy P. Gannett of Augusta, Adjutant General Gen. McLean of Maine, Col. Frank H. Smith and Gen. Edwards, Col. Farnum, T. S. A. military instructor to the National Guard of Maine, Sam E. Conner, Lewiston Journal.

DRIVE FOR BETTER RURAL SCHOOLS

State Supt. Thomas Urges Great Care in Selection of Teachers. For the Special Training and Special Compensation as Provided

In a letter just sent out to union superintendents of schools, State Superintendent Thomas of the public schools declares that one of the most decisive blows in the drive for better rural schools is to be undertaken this year by the State of Maine. He urges that great care be taken in the selection of teachers for special training and for special compensation.

"His communication reads as follows: 'You are called upon to nominate a teacher for special training and for special compensation and this teacher should be selected with the utmost care as only the choicest material should be chosen,' says Dr. Thomas in his communication."

"We must be careful not to make this a 'snap' proposition, but to hold up the standards in every possible way. The rural teacher should be one of the best prepared specialists in education. Please read carefully the law and the minimum requirements in the nomination certificate and make out the nomination sheet in full. If you are unable to make the rating please do not delay your nomination but send in the nomination document leaving the rating for future consideration. If any point is not clear do not hesitate to write at once and your letter will receive prompt attention."

"Since only 100 teachers are to be selected this year it will not be possible for all of the unmet to be given a representative. This will make it necessary to select the best candidates and to distribute them in the most strictly rural towns. The teacher thus selected will, since she is employed by a town, give her services mainly to the town in which she teaches. She may, however,

the national joy smoke

YOU can't help cutting loose joy's remarks every time you flush your smokespot with Prince Albert—it hits you so fair and square. It's a scuttle full of jimmy pipe and cigarette makin's sunshine and as satisfying as it is delightful every hour of the twenty-four!

GET AN AXE, THEN DISINFECTANT, WHEN THE FARM FOWL GET "T. B."

Halfway Measures Futile in Fighting Tuberculosis in Chickens; No Treatment of Any Avail; Disease Usually Introduced by Purchase or Infected Eggs

"T. B." in the flock does not stand for "talented breadwinners." It signifies that the fowl are afflicted with tuberculosis, which means that the flock as a unit must "go West." Halfway measures are futile in fighting tuberculosis, as there is no treatment of any avail against the disease in poultry.

The one practical course is to kill off the whole flock with maximum expedition and immediately thereafter to disinfect thoroughly all the houses and runs.

Tuberculosis of fowls is a chronic, contagious disease, characterized by the development of nodules called tubercles in various organs of the body, but most frequently in the liver, spleen, and intestines. T. B. of fowls is readily communicated to most species of birds and to several species of mammals, but it is almost impossible to communicate the tuberculosis of man and cattle to fowls. Parrots, and the smaller caged birds, are very susceptible to human tuberculosis, however, and are often affected by it.

T. B. Introduced by Purchase
Tuberculosis is generally introduced into the poultry yard by fowls purchased from infected flocks, or by eggs of diseased birds that are obtained for hatching. If the disease exists in neighboring flocks the contagion may be carried by small birds or animals passing from one yard to another.

A peculiarity of tuberculosis of birds is that the liver and intestines are nearly always severely affected, and that, as a consequence, the birds are very nervous in the intestinal contents and are scattered with the droppings everywhere that the fowl go. The introduction of a single diseased bird, therefore, may cause the infection of the greater part of the flock in a few weeks. In the same way, when wild birds contract the disease, the birds are carried and deposited in all the yards which they visit.

The eggs of diseased birds frequently contain the bacilli, as has been proved by the inoculation of material from such eggs into susceptible experimental animals. The young chicks hatched from such infected eggs are diseased when they leave the shell and, of course, soon infect the poultry with which they run. Moreover, since the infertile incubated eggs are often fed to chickens, it is evident that even the eggs which do not hatch may introduce the contagion unless they are cooked before feeding. Pigs, cats, rats, and mice are especially liable to be infected with fowl tuberculosis from eating the excrement of birds which have died. In the extent that these animals transmit the contagion to other fowls. Even calves and goats are sometimes found suffering from this form of tuberculosis.

No Early External Evidence

For the most part there are no external symptoms of T. B. in the flock until the disease has reached an advanced stage of development. Then the birds begin to show a gradual loss of weight, wasting of muscles, paleness of the comb and toward the end, dullness and sleepiness. Very often there is at the same time a tuberculous inflammation of the joints and of the sheaths of tendons, which is revealed by lameness, swelling of the joints and legs, and sometimes by the formation of hard, external tumors of considerable size.

Occasionally the skin over the swollen joints breaks, the interior of the joint is ulcerated, and a small quantity of pus containing large numbers of tubercle bacilli is discharged. Swellings and bony enlargements of the joints of fowls are invariably suspicious and their nature should always be investigated by killing the bird and examining the liver, spleen and intestines to determine whether these have on their surface, any whitish or yellowish spots which when cut into prove to be tubercular masses.

As was previously mentioned, prevention by the rapid extermination of the diseased flock is the only effective control when T. B. goes on a rampage among the fowl. If any birds slightly affected are retained the chances are they will be subsequent carriers and distributors of the disease. Hence, it is not advisable to keep any fowls that have been exposed to the contagion, no matter how valuable they may be. The birds that have died or are killed, as well as all the accumulated manure, sweepings, and scrapings of the poultry houses, should be completely destroyed by fire.

So far as known, there is no danger of communicating the disease to man by eating the cooked flesh of tuberculous fowls. In most cases, however, the diseased birds are so emaciated, that their flesh is not fit for human consumption. It is better, in all cases, to burn the carcasses of the birds in which tuberculous nodules are found and thus avoid all danger of the disease being communicated to either man or animal.

RAILROAD DEBITS AND

The Director General of Walker D. Hines, is now considering the problem of what in railroad rates the Government make to provide for the increased cost of railroad labor, labor in industries supplying and other material to the railroad. It seems inevitable that the Government must advance rates sufficiently to provide $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 additional revenues.

The increased cost of railroads since 1917 is $1,000,000,000 an average annual earning per mile has risen from $1,000 to $1,500. Increased cost of materials and the production of transport more than $500,000,000 a year. The increased cost of steel for the other industries producing materials. It is fair to say that $1,000,000,000 added to the cost of producing transportation all but small part is in wages.

To meet this increased operating the Government has thus far increased revenues through advance rates by about $1,000,000,000; there is left $500,000,000 of costs that have not been provided for. For the time being the deficit met out of the public Treasury, possibly this cannot long continue. Railroads today, on the present basis of costs and rates, are taking them as a whole, barely the interest on their bonds and not anything for their owners.

When the Government took over the railroads for war purposes, provided, on the recommendation of President, that there should be for their use about $400,000,000 or a little more than 5 per cent value of the properties. In the year of Government control the operating income fell to about 4 per cent and this year without an increase it is likely to be less than that.

THE RETURN OF THE RAILROAD

The return of the railroads to their owners on such an inadequate basis as is shown by the Director of Railroads in the hearings Congress, would, it is pointed out, mean the reduction or elimination of a large part of railroad dividend but would undoubtedly mean an interest payments on many bonds. As Senator Cummings, Chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, has said, a return of roads to their owners without a financial readjustment would not mean railroad bankruptcy but would mean the end of the whole financial structure.

The Director General of Railroads address a few days ago in the statement that on the various railroads increased cost of labor and material was from 50 to 90 per cent, with increase in rates was less than 2 per cent. He suggested that to reach the equilibrium between rates and cost it might be necessary to find $300,000,000 of additional revenues through advance in rates.

In putting the figure as low as $300,000, the Director General evidently has in mind the possibility of greater efficiency in railroad labor, some reduction in the cost of coal, and other products consumed in operation. As for a reduction in the cost of materials it must be borne in mind that these increased costs for coal, and other materials are based on a cost of wages, and the consensus of expert opinion is that there will be a change in the level of prices for a time to come.

The general advance in railroad rates a year ago by the Director General was on the assumption of a possible total increase in wages of $350,000,000 but since the Lane Wage Board in its report, $650,000,000 additional increase has been granted, and it is expected that a further wage increase may be made in the near future.

Director General Hines states that railroad transportation charges to the public are still so low, compared with all other things, that freight rates really the cheapest thing in the country. American freight rates, even with a further advance of 16 or 20 per cent would still be the lowest in the world.
